TWO OF FIVE STOLEN AUTOS ARE RECOVERED

Chrysler Stolen at Delaware Found Near Marion; Local Car Also Found

Five automobiles were stolen in Marion and nearby cities Monday, and two of the machines were recovered, according to reports on file at the local police department.

The 1926 Chevrolet coach of Robert D. Hickok, 299 N. Main-st., was found on the Kenton-pk west of Marion last night a few hours after it had been reported stolen from its parking place on S. Main-st. near the Penney Co. store. It is believed that the car was taken by joy-riders.

A Chrysler coach, carrying New York state license 2-F-9118, stolen at Delaware, Tuesday, was found late in the day on the Harding Highway east of Marion. The theft is also thought to have been the work of parties in quest of a conveyance needed for a pleasure jaunt.

A 1924 Ford coupe, Ohio license 209-060, and a 1923 Chevrolet touring car, Ohio license 385-844, were reported stolen in Findlay, and a 1925 Hudson coach, Ohio license 849-070, in Lima.

SAYS SHE WILL PROTECT VALENTINO WILL RIGHTS

Aunt of Late Star's Second Wife Coming Back From France

Juan Les Pins, France, Oct. 12—"I am sailing for America on the Aquitania on Saturday to protect my interests in the Valentino will," declared Mrs. Therese Werner today to the International News Service.

Mrs. Werner, aunt of the second wife of the late Rudolph Valentino, was made a beneficiary under Valentino's will, which it is reported will be contested by the brother and sister of Valentino.

"I hope there won't be any trouble," said Mrs. Werner. "They can't charge that I influenced Rudy since I wasn't there when the will was drawn up." Asked if she might renounce part of her rights under the will to prevent litigation, Mrs. Werner said: "I don't know the law, but I don't believe the clause providing that the brother and sister lose their rights if they contest the document will be exercised. I can't imagine anyone pressing such a claim."

DONAHEY TELLS WHY HE SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED

Governor Publishes Pamphlet Giving His Version of Campaign Issues

Columbus, Oct. 12—In a pointed pamphlet labeled "Vic Donahey's Message to the People," Governor Donahey today laid before the voters his version of the present campaign issues and his reasons for believing he should be elected for a third term over his Republican opponent, Myers Y. Cooper.

Donahey discussed in detail in the pamphlet a number of subjects, including public utilities, workmen's compensation, taxes and highways.

The most important issue in the gubernatorial contest, he declared, is the question of public utility regulation.

"In fact," Donahey said, "it is the one, all-embracing issue, far more important than the question of taxes, although my opponent, misrepresenting both, tries to submerge the former while he over-emphasizes the latter."

Asserting that the present public utilities commission "has completely lost the confidence of the public," the governor voiced the belief that not only should it be replaced, but that its system of operation also should be completely reorganized. The present commission, he charged, is dominated by former Governor Harry J. Davis and utility interests. Recalling that he was a member of the constitutional convention of 1912 which submitted the compulsory workmen's compensation to the people, and pointing out that the scale of compensation has been increased during his administration, Donahey promised that, if re-elected, he "will see to it" that the $800,000,000 fund available for injured workers and their families and dependents "will continue to be in the hands of a friendly, honest and fearless commission."

Removing Carbon ~ Grinding Valves ~ Removing Carbon

-how much longer must these twin evils pick your pocket and mar your motoring enjoyment

TWO items alone—grinding valves and removing carbon—account for at least one-half the up-keep cost of the ordinary automobile. . . . Every owner knows that . . .

The Willys-Knight Great Six wipes out all this expense . . . in its Knight sleeve-valve engine—patented, exclusive—there are no valves to grind—no carbon to remove.

Carbon cannot harm the engine of the Willys-Knight Great Six. Hence, carbon troubles, and the expense and inconvenience of remedying them, never enter into its owner's calculation . . .

In fact, the presence of carbon in the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine only serves to seal compression, to prevent waste of power . . . It is a desirable agent. Instead of hampering or harming, it actually helps this engine to perform.

Willys-Knight Great Six prices from $1750 to $2495. Prices f.o.b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. The Willys Finance Plan offers unusually attractive credit terms. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio. Willys-Overland Sales Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

Lyons, France, Oct. 13—While the wife of a Lyons baker was using a suction sweeper a great swarm of bees flew in an open window. At last reports the neighborhood was in consultation on how to empty the sweeper.

Instrumental Music Occupies Unique Place in Schools, Instructor Declares

"Instrumental music has come to occupy a very unique place in the progressive schools of Marion," H. M. Temple, superintendent of music in the Public Schools, said when interviewed regarding the ultimate value and importance of instrumental music in the public schools.

"The true reason for the importance of music lies in its quality in the nature of the subject," he went on. "Literature describes the emotions and expressions; sculpture imitates the outward forms of living beings; painting, through the proper blending of colors, makes sculpture throb with life; while music is the language of the soul, an art by which we convey sounds as a medium of artistic expression. And through the spirit of team work in their hands and orchestras," he continued.

"Through music instruction in the public schools children receive instruction in one of the finest arts and one that circumstances and environment might otherwise prevent them from enjoying," he explained.

"Music," Mr. Temple said, "is both artistic and scientific, having its roots in the science of sound as well as its foundation in literature, composition, history, practice and theory."

School Value
The value of music as a study in public school work lies in its quality of teaching a child to think and the necessity of cooperation. Mr. Temple believes, "Children are trained in the spirit of team work in their hands and orchestras," he continued.

"Through music instruction in the public schools children receive instruction in one of the finest arts and one that circumstances and environment might otherwise prevent them from enjoying," he explained.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overweightness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat. If you are overweight do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO REORGANIZE NOV. 15

Six New Directors To Be Named Prior to Annual Election

Arrangements for the annual election of the Marion Chamber of Commerce were made by the board of directors of the organization at its monthly session, Monday afternoon. A committee composed of Asa Queen, Hector S. Young and Hoke Donithen was appointed to have charge of the election, which is to take place early in November.

Six new directors, five for three-year terms and another for one year, will be chosen, with the entire membership of the Chamber participating in the voting. The new board will meet Nov. 15 to organize.

Primary ballots listing the entire membership enrollment will be mailed out on Nov. 1 with instructions for each member to designate 12 nominees for the board of directors. All nomination blanks must be returned on or before November 5. Then on Nov. 8 elections ballots giving the names of the 12 nominees will be mailed out and from this list the six new directors will be elected. Election ballots must be returned by Nov. 12 so that the count may be completed and the result known in time for the board's organization meeting on the 15th.

Election Plan
This plan of nomination and election has been in force here since three years ago and has been thoroughly successful, since it gives the entire membership a chance to have a voice in the selection of officers. Most Chambers of Commerce hold their election in connection with the annual meeting.

The directors whose terms expire this year are Asa Queen, Hector S. Young, Roy D. Moore, George H. Knapp, M. L. McDaniels and E. J. Schoenlaub.

Other members of the board are H. H. Hane, C. B. King, C. E. Merkel, C. A. Isaly and G. E. Frank, whose terms run until November, 1927, and P. E. Guthrie, E. K. Uhler, W. J. Gorton and Horace Ballinger, whose terms will expire in November, 1928.

MRS. MELLETT TO ASK FOR SUIT'S DISMISSAL

Fears She Will Embarrass Stark County Officials in Their Prosecution

Cleveland, Oct. 13.—Rather than run a risk of embarrassing Stark County officials in their efforts to convict the slayers of her husband, Don R. Mellett, murdered publisher of the Canton Daily News, Mrs. Mellett's attorneys, today announced they will ask for dismissal of the $100,000 civil damage suit filed against Louis Mazer. The suit, now pending in Federal District Court here, will be refilled later, when the murder trials of Mazer, Patrick McDermott and Ben Rudner are finished.

The move was taken to block efforts of Mazer's attorneys, who sought to obtain information of the testimony to be given by state witnesses in the murder trial, by having issued subpoenas and orders for the taking of depositions from these witnesses, in connection with the civil suit.

This would have resulted in Mazer's lawyers obtaining advance information of the testimony which the state witnesses will offer in the murder trials, Mrs. Mellett's counsel explained.

A fool and his money are soon parted in the old aphorism, but there is many a fool who knows how to get more.

REAPER OUTDISTANCED BY STORK IN SEPTEMBER

Forty-Four Births, Thirty-Three Deaths in City During Month

The stork outdistanced the Grim Reaper in Marion during September, according to the summary completed today by Miss Esther Dickason, local registrar of vital statistics, which lists 44 births and 33 deaths for the month. Apparently for the purpose of keeping the population well equalized, the apportionment of new arrivals was balanced by making it 22 boys and 22 girls.

Enteric colitis was the chief cause of death during the month, seven lives, chiefly those of infants, having been claimed by this ailment. Heart disease was second with six and apoplexy claimed four victims.

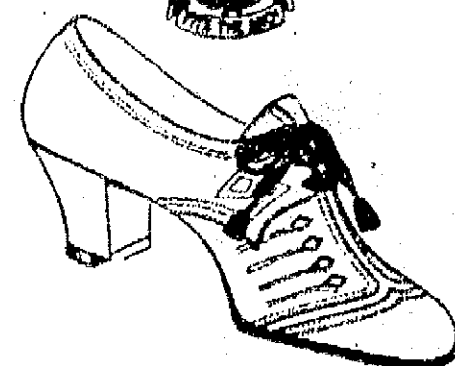

Deaths due to other causes are as follows: accidental, three; pneumonia, two; cancer, two; uræmic poisoning, one; obstruction of the bowels, one; senility, one; whooping cough, one; miscellaneous, five.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT ARMISTICE PROGRAM STARTS ON PAGE 1

Although the line of march has not been definitely fixed, the probability is that it will extend from the school grounds east on Center street to Baker street and then back to the Star Auditorium on N. State street, where the final exercises are to take place.

Assembly in the auditorium is set for 7:30 and the program will open at 7:45 with community singing of World War songs and other patriotic numbers led by Ann Queen.

There will be band music for the parade and an orchestra will play for singing at the auditorium and the community dance which will close the night's festivities. Arrangements for music are in charge of Probate Judge L. B. McNeal.

The Harding High School Boys' Glee Club will sing at 8 o'clock, followed by the Girls' Glee Club of the same school. Both groups of singers will be directed by Howard M. Temple, supervisor of music in the local schools.

Dr. Mahon's address is set for 8:20 and at 8:50 the formal program will close with the entire audience singing the "Star Spangled Banner" and other national airs to land accompaniment.

Following a 15-minute intermission beginning at 9 o'clock, the community dance will take place, continuing until midnight.

No Charge

The Legion committee in charge of arrangement announced that there will be absolutely no charge to the public for participation in any part of the program. It is the wish of the Legion to make the celebration one in which all citizens may join without any restrictions. The committee's only request is that all local organizations, patriotic, civic and fraternal, give every possible measure of support to the program and participate in the parade and other features of the program if at all possible.

The committee from Bird-McGinnis Post is being assisted by one from the American Legion Auxiliary, the chairman of which is Mrs. Joseph Morrison.

POLICE AND FIRE FORCES PLAN TO BUY HOME SITE

Expect To Purchase Tract Large Enough for Ball Diamond

While no definite plans have been made for the vacation home to be provided for Marion policemen and firemen and their families as the result of a fund started by the Osgood Co. with its gift of $2,520 which was announced at Monday night's council meeting, city officials state that when the project is finally consummated the new recreation center will probably include not only a large, modern summer cottage, but grounds of sufficient extent for a ball diamond and space for other games and amusements.

Additional contributions to the nucleus of $2,520 coming from the Osgood Co. are practically assured, it is understood, so that the fund finally is expected to be large enough to buy and equip an ideal vacation home.

The recreation center made possible by the Osgood gift will be the only one of its kind in the country ever established by voluntary contributions from the public, local officials say.

Plans for the purchase of a site will be in charge of a committee to be appointed by City Council, this provision being inserted in the ordinance adopted Monday night accepting the Osgood Co.'s generous proposal. It is also probable that the same committee will supervise the planning of the building and grounds. While plans have not advanced beyond the stage of preliminary discussion, it is thought that a location on the shore of Lake Erie is likely to be selected.

The ordinance accepting the Osgood Co. offer will not become effective until 30 days after its passage. Appointment of the committee and other steps leading up to the purchase of the home site will probably be delayed until the expiration of that period.

The Osgood Co.'s gift and action of council in accepting it brought joy to all of the local policemen and firemen. Today, T. J. McFarland, chief of the fire department and J. W. Thompson, police chief, expressed appreciation for the gift, stating that they spoke not only for themselves but all of the men in their departments.

graph," said Princess Hermine, "it is not perfectly just and logical that the Kaiser and his family should desire a home on German soil, after sacrificing for the sake of Germany with the Prussian state so much Hohenzollern property, including so many beloved places, visits to which in former days were a cherished tradition?"

In view of the fact that it took the former crown prince two years to get permission to return to Germany, it is significant that Princess Hermine told the International News Service that the ex-Emperor has taken no steps whatever on his own behalf to return to Germany. His status being considerably more complicated than that of the crown prince, there is no telling how many years it would take to clear the way for his return after he had regular channels.

Moreover, although Princess Hermine did not say so—the correspondent has reason to believe that the ex-Emperor would prevent him from asking a republican government's permission to return. After all, that permission would be an indispensable condition.

Says Kaiser Well

Asked about the ex-emperor's health, Princess Hermine said:

"I am glad to say he is very well and has overcome the gripe from which he suffered in August."

"I will be glad to return to Doorn to be with the Kaiser on the birthday of the late Empress Augusta Victoria, which we always observe as one of the consecrated days of the year."

The princess here added words warm in tribute to the late empress, first wife of the ex-emperor.

"I have spent the children's autumn holidays here with them and looked after my affairs on my estate," she said. "You know it was agreed between the Kaiser and myself when we married that I should spend three months in Germany each year, as I have not only duties towards him, but also towards my children, which he has always appreciated, and acknowledged, with a spirit of fairness and generosity which is characteristic of him."

At this juncture, the youngest child of the princess by her first marriage, little "Princess Sunshine," came into the room to bid her mother good morning. The little princess, who is the image of her mother, needed no introduction of her mother, but soon became bored, as she understands no English, and after kissing her mother affectionately, started to run out to play, but stopped half way and returned, pulling a little box of candy from her apron pocket and offering its contents to her mother and the president, with all the charm and grace of a lady of the world. She then skipped out into the vastness of the beautiful park that surrounds the castle.

The last question the interviewer asked was a definite one since it has arisen in Germany over the temporary enlistment of the former crown prince's son with the red cross. Princess Hermine did not hedge or evade, but said frankly:

"The Kaiser deeply deprecates that incident and its consequences."

REPORT CONFIRMED BY DISPATCH

Berlin, Oct. 13.—The exclusive statement made to the International News Service today by Princess Hermine that the ex-emperor has taken no steps to procure his return to Germany is confirmed by an Amsterdam dispatch to the semi-official Wolff Agency. This dispatch states that neither the ex-emperor nor the Dutch government has undertaken any steps for the return of the ex-emperor to Germany.

It states that in Dutch official circles it is believed that the former emperor is not disposed to return to Germany.

minority report.

The pestiferous internationalists are so persistent in their campaign to get us into the League of Nations that it's a matter for regret that there isn't some other country able to finance it.

The short skirts have revealed a lot, but up to a late hour this afternoon we hadn't heard of an authenticated story of the discovery of a pile of dimpled knees.

With a heavyweight championship fight and a world series matters of the immediate past and football on, it must strike young Krishnamurti that it was hardly the psychological time for him to come over and save us.

Here's another way of putting it. Were the situation reversed, did we owe Europe, could we permit her to cancel our debt and yet retain our self-respect?

An exchange says Almore McPherson is unfortunate in that she hasn't a husband to vi-sitate her by running for governor, or something. Huh! What's to prevent her, from sending out another S. O. S. call for that radio operator?

It's no affair of ours, but, if the Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo imagines the dog-in-the-manger
act he is staging has strong popular appeal, we can tell him in confidence that he has another guess coming.

There's no getting away from the fact that the outlook for the cotton growers is decidedly gloomy. The men wear woolen garments largely and the women folks aren't wearing much of anything, and what they do wear isn't cotton.

A California physician says the fapper is the pioneer toward health and sense in attire. Of course, if she's undressing as a health measure, let her strip away, and "Joy
be unconfined."

In the absence of authenticated statement on the subject, we assume that the Charleston, officially pronounced dead by the Association of Dancing Masters, succumbed as a result of structural weaknesses.

Mighty Pleasing Reading.

Announcement that the refund of $2,520,
advanced to the city something like two years ago by the Osgood company to assist in maintaining the local fire and police departments in the city's time of need, would be returned by that company looking to the purchase of a site for a summer home for the use of the members of the two departments and their families
when taking their vacations made mighty pleasing reading. It must have made pleasing reading to the members of the fire and police departments. We know it did to us. We feel that it should have proved pleasing to all our citizenship.

We believe the gift will be appreciated by the members of the two departments and by their families not only for the prospect it holds out, but also and far more for the spirit of appreciation it shows for services rendered. We do not profess to know how far such a sum will go toward the end sought, but it makes a splendid beginning—a fine nest-egg as it were
—and possibly, if it is not sufficient to meet the bill, other gifts may be forthcoming which will bring about the accomplishment of the summer home and recreation point idea and make it an actuality.

But the phase of the matter which is especially pleasing to this paper is the spirit
behind the gift shown by the Osgood people,
the thought and consideration which prompted them to arrive at the plan suggested in announcing their intention to return the refund for the purpose mentioned. It is in the manifestations of such a spirit that we get the best lines upon our citizenship, and when all is said it is the quality of its citizenship which makes a city thrive and grow or stagnate.

We congratulate the Osgood people, we congratulate our townspeople, over the proposal made. The spirit prompting it is one we would be glad to see thrive and grow. We will be glad to pay our tribute to every manifestation along the same line.

Present Lines Should Be Protected.

The local chamber of commerce is to be commended for the passing of its resolution of protest, addressed to the Ohio public utilities commission, against the granting of any of the three applications on file with the commission for permits to carry passengers between Ohio points over the routes proposed in them between Columbus and Detroit.

The regulation of interstate business, of course, is beyond the powers of the Ohio commission, but its control extends over business inside the state and it should be exerted for the protection of the lines already in operation.

As has been pointed out, there are the two steam lines and the C., D. and M. in operation between Columbus and this city and to the north of this city the transportation needs are fully met over both the proposed routes by the Hocking Valley, the Pennsylvania, the C. and
B. electric line and Maag Brothers' bus line.

Among the other duties of the state public utilities commission is the prevention of such unfair competition as the granting of any of the permits sought would make possible, and the local chamber of commerce, as well as the transportation lines already in being, has a right to utter protest against such competition
as proposed and make appeal that the commission exercise its powers to prevent injustice being worked.

Bus lines have their place. There is place and need for them in localities in which transportation needs are not already met, but to permit their operation in localities which are already served in competition with steam and electric roads which have been forced to purchase and are compelled to maintain their own rights-of-way would be contrary to right and justice.

We not only hope, we believe, the utilities commission will see the situation from the viewpoint of our chamber of commerce when it uttered its protest.

So live that when your time comes to pass into the great beyond your family will not report your death due to "complications."

Stronger Team Takes the Pennant.

The figures on the world's series having been compiled, we now know that the championship followed the playing. In other words, the compilation shows that the team which won the pennant was stronger in both hitting and fielding than the team which failed in its effort to win the coveted bunting.

At bat 239 times, the Cardinals scored thirty-one runs on sixty-five hits, thirteen bases, aided by seven Yankee errors. Thirty Cardinals struck out, they had 189 put-outs, made ninety-nine assists and five errors. Their team batting average was .272 and their team fielding average, .953. In the matter of hits for extra bases they had twelve doubles, a triple and four home runs.

On the other hand, the Yanks' team batting average was .242, thirty points lower than their opponents', and their fielding average .975, eight points below that of the Cardinals. In hits for extra bases they had ten two-buggers, one triple and four home runs. With 223 Yankees at bat, twenty-one runs, just ten less than the Cardinals' total, were made by the American legions on fifty-four hits, ten sacrifice hits, thirty-one bases on balls—eleven of them practically donated to Ruth—one stolen base and five Cardinal errors. They had 139 put-outs and made eighty-two assists and seven errors.

From all of which it may be seen that the St. Louis team, save in the matter of bases on balls, excelled the New York aggregation
playing a stronger game at bat and in the field
altogether, as shown by the assists, the quicker,
stronger and more aggressive game as a whole.
Hornby had a right to anticipate the victory
that his team achieved.

In the absence of any specifications, we assume that the lawyer in the Almore McPherson case, who says ankles are of four kinds, means beautiful, ordinary, plump and newel-post.

A Fitting Entrance.

It is good to know that the present main gateway to Marion cemetery is soon to be replaced. From the day it was erected it has been utterly out of all accord with the wonderful beauty of the grounds to which it gave entrance. It never was other than inartistic.
Some with good reason have referred to it as unightly. It will be pleasing when it is relegated to a less conspicuous position and an entrance more in keeping with the grounds takes its place.

The Marion cemetery is easily one of the most beautiful in all this country, and that means that it is one of the most beautiful in all the world. If there are any more beautiful, they may be counted upon the fingers of one hand. And none of them is more artistic or better maintained. In fact, it's a debatable question if any cemetery in the land is so carefully kept, so well maintained. Our "City of the Dead" is more than a cemetery. It is a beautiful park in which we lay away those who pass from us. It is only when one has visited other fine cemeteries of the land, cemeteries noted for their beauty, that one appreciates the surpassing beauty of this of which we speak.
Should the time ever come when our city itself will even approach the artistic touch, the beauty and cleanliness of our "City of the Dead," it will not be long till it is known the country over as the beauty spot of the land.

Vagrant Verse.

AUTUMNAL SPELL.

We all have felt the immemorial spell
Of autumn hastening on.
If we but harken an elusive bell
Will sound abroad the night,
Telling of summer's flight
With portents of strange beauty at the dawn.
Dawn!—and our awakening eyes behold
A rich new liveliness—
Green changed to the irradiance of gold.
Crimson upon the hill,
And by the lyric fall
The tangled copse in a damask dress.
That this will come to us so well aware
We deem no miracle
Has wrought the wonder upon earth and air.
And yet miraculous
It is to waken thus
And feel the autumn's immemorial spell.

Modern Life Stress Lowers Vitality.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Not long ago I had a letter from a public health statistician in the West, asking the number of deaths from diseases of the heart in the United States for the past ten years.

There has been a steady increase in the number of deaths from this cause. In 1915, there were 111,000 deaths in the United States. In 1924 there were 177,000 deaths from heart diseases. The increase in deaths in ten years has been about seventy per cent. During the same period the increase in population has been about thirty per cent.

I am aware that in the language of statistics cancer has increased materially in the past few years. I have never been greatly disturbed by these figures because I realize that the means of diagnosing cancer have increased and improved yearly. In other words, we recognize as cancer now malignant conditions which were overlooked in former times.

This is not the case in heart disease. The prevalence has been well-informed regarding the affections of the heart and blood vessels through a long period of time. The recognition of these diseases was accurate years ago. It is my belief that there has been a tremendous increase in diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

In seeking the causes of heart disease we have but to study the tendencies of modern times. Our modern living makes for stress and strain. Late hours, worry, fatigue, the competitions of modern life, the hurly-burly of the city, hurrying to catch street cars and suburban trains—all these things
make calls upon the heart which that organ is unable to resist.

The demands of for rapid transportation have urged men to abandon the feet or the back of a horse. Nowadays he lolls on the seat of an automobile, permitting his heart muscle to be replaced by fat. A heart of this type can not resist pressure as did the hearts of our ancestors.

The soft-muscled, soft-hearted product of modern living takes possession of the wheel of the automobile. He develops a speed mania with the excitement and tension incident to it. The heart goes bad in such a case because it has not been trained to endure the physical demands of such an experience
as conducting a motor vehicle.

I wonder, sometimes, if infections are not more readily acquired these days than they were in older times. Our powers of resistance are less than people used to have. In consequence we find the hidden results of infections, and they may be the hidden cause of heart disease, more common than we doubt the conditions of modern life from whatever standpoint
we consider it conducive to diseases of the heart.

The way to deal with the human heart is to lead
the manner of life which will keep it from becoming diseased. More rest, more sleep, nourishing food, simple living—just plain common sense—by the practice of these simple rules we may hope that heart disease may become less frequent as the years pass.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

A. P. Q.—I am suffering from nervous indigestion which causes sleeplessness and heavy breath-is causing your indigestion. Watch your diet and avoid poor elimination. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

N. M. T. Q.—Can anything be done for knock knees?
A.—Yes. See an orthopedist for his advice.

Interesting Questions Asked and Their Answers.

Q. In what country is the most coffee drunk?
M. L.

A. In the Scandinavian countries are the greatest coffee drinkers. They drink coffee not only at all meals, but also between meals.

Q. How long would it take a person to count
$1,000,000 in ten-cent pieces? J. M.

A. It would depend upon the expertness of the counter, and how steadily he counted. In the coin room of the treasury, it usually takes from fifteen to twenty minutes to count $1,000
in dimes.

Q. Which South American country had the first diplomatic representative to the United States?
D. M.

A. The Republic of Colombia in 1822 designated Don Manuel Torres as first minister from that country to the United States. In receiving him, Washington gave official recognition to the first Latin American diplomatic agent.

Q. How did the Lombards or Langobardi hap-

A. Tradition says that these people were originally called Winnili. Under the leader-

Thickens predict that the age-long dispute between capital and labor will be settled, by the third party to the dispute—the public.
The logical outgrowth, because the public is most concerned, and is in the majority.
But such a settlement can not come until the public develops a more capable leadership.
Democracy is only justified and breeds without as it develops leaders, and breeds within the people the generosity and the confidence to follow these leaders.

As we grow more civilized we shall not tolerate so much smoke. The Chicago & North western railroad has introduced a gigantic storage-battery electric locomotive. It generates from its thirty-nine two storage battery enough power to pull the heaviest train. And there is no smoke.

The removal of the pall of smoke from American cities will have a profound effect on the lives of the people. It will lift depression and lighten spirits.

Smoke is not altogether an industrial problem. It is a spiritual problem.

The lord bishop of London, visiting in America says:

"I was surprised to learn that your school text-books still teach that Americans must have Englishmen, but when I get back I shall have something to tell the English people that will help to clear up their false viewpoints about America."

Englishmen can't understand why Americans shouldn't fall in line with the English viewpoint at once, and forget there are fifty languages spoken in Chicago alone.

The trouble is that we in America, also, are always forgetting that there are fifty languages spoken in Chicago and New York and in other cities. That is our problem. The Great America is made of the many. It is not to be made by the few who would force all the rest to travel the same route of thought and custom.

It is to be made of the many who face courageously and cheerfully the problem of living together in harmony and in tolerance.

The New American.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

Some of us Northerners, when for the moment
we forget Leonardo da Vinci, Michael Angelo and a few other distinguished folk, are inclined to be boastful. It is an old habit, and like old habits, difficult to abandon.

Time was when to be an American meant to realize the coursing of Anglo-Celtic blood through the veins, but the republic has grown rapidly. The great cities of the country are no longer American cities in the old sense.
The spirit of the republic is not well otherwise.
The genius of the republic from the laying of the foundation stones of the national fabric has extended to all the world of less fortunate peoples a warmth of welcome that could not be resisted. Through the century and a half of the nation's existence millions of men and women of alien blood have come to these shores—Saxon, Norman, Dane, of course, but also—Greek and Italian, French, Poles and many more, who have been fused in the crucible of citizenship. And, generally speaking, they have made good citizens. Whether we of the Nordic line like it or not, they will continue to transmit to their children the varied blood currents of the Old world.

They are to be found in the police ring and in the public—these new Americans. They are in the business and the professions—in all the avenues of industry. They have distinguished themselves in the fields of invention, statesmanship, exploration, literature, science and ethics.
They are here to stay.

Illustrative of this fact, a few days ago a soldier, who for the honor of the army—the American army—had come to the aid of the Normans in New York harbor, burdened by his full service kit, weighing fifty-four pounds.
He was not a Nordic, but a Greek with the spirit of Leander, without Leander's personally compelling motive. He had seen service in the French Foreign legion, but now is a soldier of the United States. He did not succeed, but he came near to doing it, and the credit due him is just as great as though he had won—
"for the glory of his army."

The woman who swam with Don Kandas bore
the name of Wilkowsky; she was the daughter of a sergeant in the United States service. The endurance test was in charge of Major Carlo
A. Pivrotto, of the recruiting service, born Italian, who enlisted as a private, winning his way to a majority without the "pull" sometimes possessed by an American boy.

America should be safe in the hands of the new Americans since he appears to be wedded to the ideals of Washington and Jefferson.

considered, she was probably safer at Birchwood than elsewhere.

It should be said for Scott that he was honestly convinced of the infallibility of his own judgments. When events proved these to have been wrong, he never found the erroneous element in himself, but always in persons or circumstances thwarting him, which made him doubly ruthless in retaliation; and his great strength, physical and mental, combined with confidence to give him power. His lack was less intellectual than spiritual. Conceiving every man as the indisputable ruler of his own house and himself as inevitably right, he sincerely believed it to be his duty as a parent to dictate the direction of his daughter's thoughts and to govern the details of their lives and felt himself aggrieved by their recalcitrance.

As Robertta had said, he was an anachronism, but he was got entirely unique. Here and there like exists, the most recent and striking public example, perhaps, being found in the person of a gentleman named Hohenzollern.

Confidence in the integrity of his fellow men had never been a conspicuous factor in Scott's character, and he put his faith now in his own strength and acumen, supplemented by conditions he could command at home: a barrier of barbed wire, trained dogs to keep out marauders, and a small corps of thoroughly intimidated servants who did his bidding at all times. If they knew their duty was good for them.

Unaware of this decision, however, Piggy crept over narrow, winding roads to Fitzwilliam, where he got his field-glass, laid in a supply of crackers and cheese at the general store of the village, and tore back at a speed imperiling the springs of his car, to the spot where he had left Robertta. Near by he found one of the many old wood loads of the region, made for hauling out brush or timber and seldom used, and followed it into a copse where he hid the car, craning as well as he could the marks of his tires as he returned to the road.

Near the top of the hill he whistled several times, and at last a low car answered him. He found Robertta crouching at the edge of a thicket. Her face was white against the sombre cloud of her veil, her brown eyes blazing.

"Look!" she exclaimed. "He's bullying her."

Below them, set in a clearing on the opposite hillside, he saw a large flat-roofed gray house with many chimneys. Behind it was a large barn, a garage, and dog kennels. Adjoining the barn was a covered, open-fronted woodshed, perhaps originally designed as a shelter for wagons. Along the wide front of the house a terrace stretched surrounded by small shrubberies and a few late-blossoming flowers.

On the terrace were two figures; a woman sat in a wicker chair, the cushions of which, tossed aside, made bright spots of color on the gravel, and before her stood a man, his feet well apart, evidently haranguing her.

"They've been there for half an hour," said Robertta. "Celia's been crying a little. I wonder what he's saying to her?"

Piggy handed her the glass, and while she adjusted it he spread the rug he had brought from the car for her to sit on, settling himself beside her to peer through the light screen of brush.

"She's discouraged," Robertta reported, watching through her glass. "I think she held her own at first. It looked that way. But now he's beating her down. I wish I knew what he's saying."

Scott was using strategy. Celia had withstood his primary onslaught, with its familiar charges of ingratitude, untruthfulness, and obliquity. Again she had refused to tell him whether or not she had seen Robertta abroad. She had even sustained with a show of courage, though a few tears escaped her control, his statement that obviously Pierre had forgotten her, since no letter had been from him in the month she had been continued failure, he said savagely:

"You needn't think anybody sympathizes with you. The last time I saw you you said that the Frenchman or Robertta would come for you. He's quit you cold, as anybody but a fool would have known he would, and Robertta's in this country now and hasn't made a move toward you."

"She is? Robertta's here?" Celia looked up with a flash of hope.

About Robertta's height, she had the same delicately-cut features; but her hair was lighter than her sister's, her brown eyes less clearly deep and sparkling, even when she was happy. Of late they had been dull. Now she was pale, but ordinarily the sensitive color came and went, varying with her emotions, under a peculiarly fair skin.

"She's here, all right, but she's not bothering about you," Scott replied. "She said she was going to Washington to get some client who's sick, and would sail again Saturday."

"Then you've seen her!"

"I have not."

"But how do you know?"

"I had her watched. I knew she was coming, and a detective followed her."

"A detective! Oh, father!"

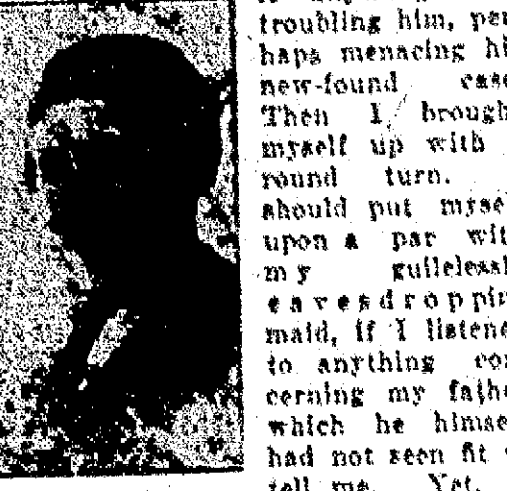

"—every minute she was in New York. Some friend of her met her, and my man heard her say that she was going to Washington to get this woman—a Mrs. Miles—and that they'd sail Saturday. She said she didn't want to stay in this country any longer than she had to."

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

CHATTER IS DISTURBING

FOR a half minute, which seemed an eternity, I battled with the desire to listen to Katie's proffered confidence concerning my father. I told myself that it was really my duty to find out

If anything were troubling him, perhaps his new-found case. Then I brought myself up with a round turn. I should put myself upon a par with my gullelessly eavesdropping maid, if I listened to anything concerning my father which he himself had not seen fit to tell me. Yet, I was with distinct reluctance that I answered her negatively.

"No, Katie," I said with decision, "you must not tell me anything which you have learned by listening or watching. Whatever my father wishes me to know about his affairs he will tell me, unless—" I stopped with a sudden poignant fear. "You do not mean that you think he is ill?"

My pulse skipped a beat as I waited for her answer.

"No, he not seek in her body," she answered slowly, "but I think he got something queer matter with his head. He sits sometimes hours with his head in his hands, and he says all times, 'Must I bear down cross again?' And all times he talk like dot set almost after letter come from dot Major Grantland, he all time get letters from them and—"

"Stop! Katie!" I admonished her, realizing guiltily that by my innocently terrified question, I had unlocked the gates of Katie's confidence and done the very thing I had told myself I must not do. "I do not want to hear anything about what my father does or says. If he is ill, that is a different question. I want you always to tell me that about him."

"Seek mit his body or seek mit his mind, vot dis difference?" Katie muttered sulkily. I agreed with her, secretly. Although about. I asked the one question which I knew would restore her good nature.

"What do you think we would better plan for his meals while he is here? He must be missing your cooking."

She tossed her head with a bravado which I knew meant secret chagrin.

"Oh! I guess he no miss my cooking," she said. "He have dot Missis Tiger to feed him all kinds of messes. She good cook. I hear you say so, your own self."

I choked back a chuckle at a remembrance of the old-time culinary rivalry between Katie and our redoubtable neighbor, Mrs. Tiger.

"Of course, she is a good cook. Knowing I said honestly, 'You know that as well as I do. But you also know that we of the Graham family wouldn't exchange the meals you get us for those of any other cook going, so stop your nonsense and plan the very nicest dishes you know for my father."

Katie's face lighted up with joy—she has an inordinate appetite for praise.

"Your shoest watch my smoke," she said, "I feel keen all de things he like best, all things he change say ven he ask for second helpings. 'Katie, my girl, you wort your weight in gold.'"

Her good humor was completely restored and she served the breakfast with no hint of the tantrum to which she had so nearly treated us. But not for a long time afterward was I able to rid myself of the impression of something radically wrong with my father, which her chatter had given me.

MRS. REED: "Mother, that sounds exactly like Grandma. Remember how she used to praise it?"

MRS. PACKARD: "Yes, three generations in our family have relied upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Some day you'll be giving it to little Marjorie."

YEARS ago, a mother gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to her young daughter. The daughter married and became the mother of seven children.

She writes: "I always took it before my babies were born and I know it gave me strength to do my work. I am now having the Change of Life and am taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am giving it to my oldest daughter. I have always recommended it to my friends. I will answer any letters from women asking about the medicine."

BEFORE her marriage, Mrs. Frankum was a working girl. Like many girls, she sometimes had to stay home from her work. A friend told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she found that it relieved her trouble.

She was in good health until her second baby came. "I began to take the Vegetable Compound again," she writes, "and so was able to do my housework. Women ask me what I have been doing and I tell them about your medicine. I feel that I owe a lot to it."

Isaly's State Champs Open Schedule Here Thanksgiving

Coach Torrence Promises Successful Season While Big Squad of Stars Work

New College and Professional Players Report at Initial Workout in Addition to Last Season's Trophy Winners; Will Meet Best Teams in Country

MARION'S Isaly Dairy basketball team, independent champions of Ohio, started practice last night in The Star auditorium preparatory to opening its season Nov. 14 at Lorain with the Lorain Lions.

Isaly are scheduled to play their first home game Thanksgiving night. The opponents have not been named because of the fact that four of Ohio's leading teams are anxious to meet the local champions in the latter's first game.

Isaly Have Midget
Bruz Robbins, considered by many as the most versatile Isaly, is returning this season. Harry plays either forward or guard positions with equal precision. He is the team's midget.

Open Here Thanksgiving
The custom established the last five years calls for an out-of-town game Thanksgiving night, the opening for basketball season. This year Isaly have announced that they plan to play at home Thanksgiving night.

However, four bids have been received by the Isaly management for foreign games Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Years are the three big dates in the basketball calendar and Isaly always receive their portion of work.

Following the first game of the season at Lorain Nov. 14, the Lorain Lions will play a return game shortly after Christmas.

Isaly have nine games scheduled to date. The schedule includes games with the Akron Goodyears, Oak Harbor American Legion, which team defeated Isaly twice last season, Wapakoneta Legionnaires, Columbus, Kansas, Oshes Terrible Swedes, from Kansas, and several Ohio Conference teams.

By the time the season opens, the schedule will be complete offering Marion fans a choice selection of basketball.

Professionals Scheduled
Several of the best professional teams in the country such as the Cleveland Rosenblums, Washington Palace Club, Washington, D. C., Ft. Wayne's Knights of Columbus, Boston Braves are scheduled to appear here this season.

All home games will be played in The Star's auditorium. Coach Allen Compton, Ohio Conference official, will referee home games.

In addition to having the same men who went through the last season's state championship tournament which was entered at Columbus by 43 teams, Isaly have a few new stars who are

CHICAGO HOPES TO AVENGE LAST YEAR'S DEFEAT

Coach Alonzo Stagg hopes to achieve—in his thirty-fourth season as coach—sweet revenge for the 7 to 0 defeat handed his eleven last year by the University of Pennsylvania. The Chicago-Penn game Oct. 16, is the first of the big east-west games this year. The photos show Captain Wally Marks of Chicago kicking. Captain George Thayer of Pennsylvania State and the Chicago coaching staff. Left to right, the members are: Henderson, Celsner, Norgren, Dickson, Jackson and Stagg.

CARDINAL STAR MISSED CHANCE

Didn't Get into Series Money with New York Giants

Frank Snyder once a fixture with the St. Louis Cardinals and then one of the malcontents behind the plate for the New York Giants, will spend the greater part of the winter kicking himself from the past and into the conservatory.

Snyder was released by the Giants late in the season at the winter price to the Cardinals. He reported to the St. Louis team but apparently didn't like the team's chances, or the prospect of sitting on the bench part of the time so he turned in his uniform. Had he remained with the team he would have collected at least part of a share in the Cardinals' end of the winter's series.

Which would have seen him through a very comfortable winter. And on the strength of his being with the Cardinals in the big classes he probably would have found himself with some major league club at the start of the 1935 season.

Snyder was popular during his long career as a Cardinal and the fans were lost to understand his failure to purchase over a chance to be with them when prospects of a pennant and the dough that goes with it seemed so.

The Gans Nelson bout at Goldfield, Nev., twenty years ago, was the first important fight promoted by Tex Rickard.

SKULL PRACTICE

YALE plans to restore the huddle system. Harvard is getting prices on gross lots of brass knuckles as a more effective step toward better football.

Notre Dame's grid team boasts two captains this season. Some college teams seem sadly in need of one.

MILLER HUGGINS MAY HAVE LIFTED THE YANKEES FROM SEVENTH PLACE TO A PENNANT IN ONE SEASON BUT HUGGINS HORNBY LIFTED THE TOWN OF ST. LOUIS FROM THE BASEBALL JOKE BOOK CLASS.

The trouble with football "bear" stories is that they're usually carried too far.

Tad Jones announced he would use 25 players as his first team this season and 750 Harvard fans rushed to the sporting goods houses to buy rule books to see if the rules had been changed on the fly.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
New York—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, won on foul from Harry Wills, of New York, in thirteenth round; George Courtney, of Oklahoma, scored technical knockout over Jimmy Darrab, of California, in fifth round; Jack Warren, of Chicago, won decision from Jack Townsend, of New York, six rounds.

Los Angeles—Johnny Risako, of Cleveland, won decision over Sailor Eddie Hoffman, ten rounds.

Nobody can do justice to themselves when they are suffering from want of rich, red blood. It is this impoverished condition of the blood that causes so many failures in life. There's no place at the top for the weakling—the man and woman with poor, weak blood.

Build up your blood! Get in the red-blooded class—and get the rewards you deserve. S. S. S. will do it for you! S. S. S. helps Nature build millions of red blood cells!

S. S. S. sends rich, red blood tingling to every fibre of your body and every pore of your skin. You are fairly radiant with energy, vim and vitality.

PRESBYTERIANS MEET BISHOPS

Wooster Plays Ohio Wesleyan First Game in 11 Years

Delaware (C. O. 13)—With the Ohio state game now a matter of history, the Presbyterian and Ohio Wesleyan University are looking forward to their contest at Wooster Saturday.

The tilt will be the first on the gridiron since 1915 when Wooster was victor, 21 to 7. The Presbyterians and the Bishops are old rivals, football relations between the two institutions dating back to 1901.

Coach Gauthier expects his men to reach the peak of their form in the Wooster clash. By that time, he believes, the team will begin working with back like precision. Since his eleven this fall is comparatively green, it has taken a month of actual playing to make it work like a machine.

The Wooster tilt will be Wesleyan's first Ohio conference game outside of Buckeye Athletic Association circles. A week ago the Bishops downed Miami, their first Buckeye Association opponent, 11 to 7.

Need More Rhythm
Rhythm and consequent speed are to be emphasized at practice. "My men are going to learn rhythm of movement on the gridiron if I have to play a phonograph on the field and say it with music," he said today. "Rhythm is necessary to a winning football team," the diminutive coach added.

Most of Wesleyan's casualties are expected to be in shape. Bob Kyle, Cleveland, end, is recovering from his foot infection and may be in condition to start the tilt at one of the wing positions.

YALE FIRST WINNER
The first real football championship among American colleges was won by Yale just fifty years ago, when the Elis scored gridiron victories over Harvard, Princeton and Columbia.

Smart and Waddell Share Honors With Mutuals in National League Matches

Bentz Tires and Richman Brothers Have Tough Sailing When Steinmetz and Metz Turn in Big Scores for Winners at Association Alleys

Smart & Waddell and the Midland Mutuals were heavy scorers Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. where they won the game each in National League matches.

Bentz Tires won the third game by 114 points from the Smart & Waddell showmen.

Richman's clubbing men were the winners of the second game in the Midland Mutual match. They had 25 pins to the good.

Smart & Waddell took the first and second games by margins of 47 and 15 points, which gave them a margin of 52 pins in the grand totals after the Tiresmen cut their lead 114 points by taking the final game.

Leffer and Snyder with scores of 205 and 200, respectively, helped blow up the Tires in the third game.

Re-taking the second game with a 25 point margin, the Richmans cut the Bentz Tires.

LOYAZA COMING BACK TO UNITED STATES
Santiago, Chile, Oct. 13—Stanislo Loyaza, Chilean lightweight boxer, who has just completed a successful season in the United States, expects to return there at the end of this year, he said today upon his arrival here.

First he expects to make a tour throughout Chile. He was awarded a triumphal home with parades and street celebrations.

GENEVA BEATS HARVARD
Bo McMillan's Geneva college gridiron squad was evidently the strongest team that ever opened a Harvard football schedule, since their defeat of the Crimson this season as the first occasion in which the latter ever failed in their opening game.

Then came lean years for Harvard in which everyone trampled on the Crimson, from the little teams up.

Now comes Geneva, tiny and unsung, to add more insult. It isn't so much the defeat that rankles, but the fact that the victory was achieved mainly by smart coaching. The man who built the Geneva eleven which triumphed was "Bo" McMillan the man who led Central College to a victory over Harvard not so many years ago.

It is to be presumed that McMillan, with his heart set on gaining such fame, pointed his team quickly for the Harvard affair. It is a fact, of course, that Harwood has been developing his Harvard team slowly, with a view toward having it in tiptop shape for the later games. But it is to be presumed that Harvard, with its huge squad, its great enrollment and its more comprehensive coaching system, could whip a team produced from a college the size of "Bo's".

However, Crimson followers are waiting to see what Jack Arnold Harwood has when he gets his team under way.

PROFESSIONALS MUST HURRY
Attendance figures indicate that professional football will have a long way to go before it will rival the college game in popularity.
